About the Estate:

Before settling in Montagne, Gonzague Maurice worked in the wine business for several years, first two years in Sancerre, then 4 years in a domain in Haut-Medoc. He then followed a specialized training course at Chevalier (Pessac-Léognan), Château Poupille (Côtes de Castillon) and Domaine de l'Île Margaux. In 2005 he decided to buy an old winery and 3.2 hectares of vines. Its installation required a lot of work since the vines were in very poor condition. More than 3000 vines to replant. The vat room was also in an average state, with functional concrete vats but a large layer of scale to be removed. Once set up, he decided to expand the estate, which currently covers 7.5 hectares in Montagne Saint-Emilion, 2.5 hectares in Puisseguin Saint-Emilion and 3 hectares in Côtes de Castillon. We've been introduced by common personal relations, and tasted Gonzague MAURICE wines, attentively following the evolution and progress over the years, and started offering Clos du Pavillon & La Folie from, the 2008 Vint.

La Folie is a niche production made with care and attention: 3.70 acres South oriented limestone clayey slopes within 3 little plots in Parsac. 30 to 40 year old vines planted with high 6000 to 6500 vines' plants' density. Green harvesting and leaves' removing done - if necessary - on the sunrise exposure, to aerate grapes without too much sun exposure. 30 to 40 Hl. / Hect. Max. yield. Hand harvesting & double sorting. Thermo-controlled vinification & malolactic fermentation in small (50 to 60 Hl) concrete tanks. 12 months ageing in 18 months old (no new) French Oak & medium toasted barrels (Taransaud), then 6 additional months ageing in concrete tanks before bottling.

La Folie is an architectural 18th century "madness": a small 18th century tower that officially served as a relay for the pilgrims of Compostela... but more precisely, a single room / bed-room stone house, usually built separated from the main Chateaux, for Chateau owners to "receive" their Mistresses! It is called a "Garçonniere" in French.

Tasting Notes & Press Review:

"I also loved the 2015 La Folie.... sexy, exuberant wine offering lots of spices red and black fruits, notes of tobacco, loamy earth, spice and cedarwood, medium body, a round, lush texture, and velvety tannins. I'd drink this pleasure-bent effort any time over the 7-8 years, yet I suspect it will keep even longer" Jeb Dunnuck 90 Pts Aug. 2021

"This dark, still dry and firmly structured wine comes from vines surrounding an 18th century tower (the Folly). The rich tannins and black fruits are still developing and moving towards generous richness. This wine has a fine future ahead of it." 91 Pts Roger Voss - Wine Enthusiast 04/21
